 Bicycle Issue Questionnaire Compilation
 2006 Demand Summary

There were 70 respondents in total between October 2005 and June 2006. Not every respondent answered every question and in a few cases, desired trip distance in particular, individuals selected multiple distances, therefore response totals from which percentages were calculated vary from 60 to 79.

* It is difficult to tabulate certain results in the absence of a database. Anecdotally, many of the respondents listing either Downtown or Bucknell as destinations were also in the upper frequency and distance ranges, implying that while the destination is not reported more than once, it is likely to be visited frequently, as in the case of commuting. As one measure, of the 44 who initially listed Bucknell as a current destination, 27 listed it again as a desired destination (this is not reflected in the number reported in these tables, which only list a broadening in the demand for a certain destination beyond the current riding reported, not an increase in intensity of riding to that destination); similarly of the 40 who initially listed Downtown as a current destination, 22 listed it again as a desired destination.
